

Master's in Healthcare Leadership

Preparing visionary leaders to solve today's complex healthcare challenges.

OVERVIEW

Brown University's Master of Science in Healthcare Leadership is a transformative, 16-month blended program designed for busy clinicians and ambitious healthcare professionals who want to make a positive impact in the world. Our rigorous curriculum, taught by world-class faculty, provides healthcare specific executive-level training with a focus on leadership and actionable results for participants and their organizations.

Program Snapshot & Outcomes

Format:	Length:	Partner:
BLENDED ONLINE & IN-RESIDENCE	16 MONTHS STARTING IN JANUARY	BROWN SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

60%	Promoted to VP or C-Suite
67%	Reported a significant salary increase
73%	Received a managerial-level promotion

PARTICIPANT PROFILE

Our participants have an average of 7+ years of professional experience in the healthcare industry, including but not limited to healthcare delivery, drug and product manufacturing, healthcare consulting, health management systems, insurance, patient advocacy, public health, policy, and regulatory settings.

COURSES

- Healthcare Policy
- Strategic Planning and Value Creation
- Leadership and Marketing
- Quality Improvement
- Financial Decisions and Cost Accounting
- Health Law
- Epidemiology and Biostatistics
- Data Analytics
- Information-Powered Patient Care
- Health Economics
- Leadership and Professional Development
- Capstone: Critical Challenge Project

Throughout the program, participants apply skills and knowledge gained from their coursework to a critical challenge they identify within the healthcare sector. Students work in faculty-supported peer teams to devise solutions to these real world challenges.

Contact Us

Sandi Ferretti, Program Director
sandra_ferretti@brown.edu

Anthony Napoli, Academic Director
anthony_napoli@brown.edu

UPCOMING EVENTS

SPEAK WITH AN ADVISOR